As a bachelor's completion program, students admitted into the program are certified to have completed their general education requirements. As part of the admissions process, all coursework fulfilled at non-regionally accredited institutions will have a general education review by an academic advisor. Students deficient in any general education areas (below) are required to fulfill those deficiencies within 1 year of acceptance. A student deficient in more than 5 areas will not be admitted to the program. If you receive a conditional acceptance and fail to complete the deficient coursework, you will not be permitted to graduate from the program. It is recommended students enroll in UC Online course sections as available (prior to transfer). If you have questions as to what courses may fulfill specific general education requirements, please consult a UC academic advisor.
